

A close-up photograph of two hands kneading a ball of dough on a wooden surface. The hands are positioned on either side of the dough, with fingers pressing and folding it. The dough is light-colored and appears soft. The wooden surface is dusted with flour. In the background, a piece of white cloth is visible.

Unexpected financial hardship is a fact of life for many local families – hard-working families who never thought they'd need help paying their utility bills.

Project Share provides those families the home heating assistance they need when they need it most. It's a program made possible by community-action agencies, utility companies and fuel vendors all working together.

But most importantly, Project Share relies on the generosity of people like you. Learn how you can make a difference in the lives of local families at: givetoprojectshare.org
